Spring Humors

It doesn't make any difference whether you believe in the modern theory and speak of the cause of diseases as referable to germs, microbes or bacilli, or whether you use the older and better understood terms of "humors" and "blood diseases"—Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them all JUST THE SAME. It cures those eruptions, boils and pimples which are so likely to appear in the Spring; cures scrofula diseases in their most tenacious forms; cures salt rheum or eczema and relieves the itching and burning; adapts itself equally well to, and also cures, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles due to generally weak condition and thin, anemic blood; cures nervous troubles, which, in nine cases out of ten, exist because the impure blood cannot supply proper nerve food; cures debility and that tired feeling, which just as surely indicate that the blood is lacking in vitality and the elements of health. This is not merely modern theory but it is solid, up-to-date fact. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had such remarkable success along these lines that it is not too much to say it is the best Spring Medicine, blood purifier, stomach and nerve tonic that money can buy.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Make way for "Arizona"! It is coming to Myers Grand Monday evening, April 3, fresh from its New York triumphs. Whether taken as a whole or in part "Arizona" holds the attention of both the casual playgoer and the one who wishes to go deeper into the passion of life—the passions which are life. The invincibility are such that one finds ceaseless attraction in this bit of dialogue or that bit of action. The actors are such that the soldier, the cowboy and the woman, one after another occupy the principal place. Having chosen an appealing theme for his story, Mr. Thomas, the author, also chose a collection of people who would not only preserve all the virtue which there was in the central idea but who would each by contrast with the other carry out the general plan and make this mimic world seem like a real one.

The cleanest and most moral play ever written and a triumph of untarnished art is what is claimed for "Quo Vadis," which is to be presented here by the Carpenter Dramatic Company. The play appeals strongly in setting forth a graphic picture of the period when the Roman empire under Nero was at its best. The incidents of the book are vividly brought out in the drama showing the desperate struggle of the Christians against the despot and his court. The scenes, consisting of eleven stage sets are striking and beautiful. The flight of the emperor and the burning of Rome is an impressive stage picture. The burning of the Christians is also a scene which stirs the audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. The singing of the Christians and the prayers and benedictions of the Apostle, Peter, are solemn and effective, while the original music adds much to its success. "Quo Vadis," as a play, has the honor of beating all records as to receipts and attendance in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia. The company is a strong one and the scenic effects elaborate and of the best.

PAUL L. HINRICH AGAIN PROMOTED

The Former St. Paul Ticket Agent Will Go to Davenport, Iowa, to Reside.

The Madison Democrat of Saturday has the following article concerning Paul L. Hinrich, formerly agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad in this city:

"Paul L. Hinrich, who came from Janesville to Madison four years ago to act as ticket agent for the St. Paul railway at this point, succeeding Nelson N. Pierce, has been tampered with by the company to such an extent that his departure to Davenport, Iowa, has been procured. In that highly important trade community he is made commercial agent; with duties as yet not clearly prescribed, but having general charge of the company's interests, not only at Davenport, a place of 35,000 people, but at Rock Island and Moline as well. The three cities are closely allied, being connected by an electric railway and several steam roads. The traffic out of the three places is very great, and hence the St. Paul management earnestly urged Mr. Hinrich to take the place. He was loath to leave Madison, his boyhood home, and where he and his family are so congenially located, but the flattering inducements and his own sense of duty to the company, finally over-persuaded him. He is in Chicago today for instructions and expects to assume his new duties at once."

Mr. Hinrich succeeds at Davenport Mr. J. S. Bowdoin, formerly agent for the St. Paul company in this city, a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Bowdoin has returned to his old home in England. He is reputed to be rich.

A Testimonial From Old England. "I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. William Sav- has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." It is a great pleasure to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be able to publish testimonials of this character. They show that great good is being done pain and suffering being relieved and valuable lives restored to health and happiness by this remedy. It is for sale by People's Drug Store and King's Pharmacy.

Curocity in a Cane. William H. Tripp of the town of Rock was in the city today exhibiting a curocity in the way of a cane. It was made from a white oak rail taken from the last rail fence in the town of Rock. The fence was on the farm of the late Abram Phelps and the rails were split and the fence built in 1843. Mr. Tripp had three canes made from the rail. One he sent to Levi Pepper of Aurora, Mo., who split the rails and built the fence; another was given to Henry Blank of this city on account of the fence being his, the third he still owns. Mr. Tripp is 83 years of age and is still hale and hearty, his memory of the events of early days is as clear as if they occurred but yesterday.

MUSICALE WAS AN ARTISTIC SUCCESS

High Character of an Entertainment Given by the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary Last Night.

The musicale given under the auspices of the Woman's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. at the association building last evening, was an artistic success and was highly appreciated by the audience, which, however, was not as large as the high character of the entertainment and the worth of the cause for which it was given, warranted.

The program, which was an exceptionally fine one opened with a selection, "Lady Bird," by Cowen, beautifully sung by a ladies' quartet consisting of Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Mrs. S. T. Learned, Miss Elizabeth Palmer and Miss Franc Edwards. The four melodious voices blended harmoniously and with a very pleasing effect.

With all due credit to the vocalists of Janesville and with no disparagement of their art, the chief interest of last evening naturally centered in the appearance of Mrs. C. F. Tallard, of Edgerton. She came as a stranger but before she had finished her first selection, "The Quest," by Eleanor Smith, she had firmly established herself in the high esteem of those who heard her. She has a magnificent contralto voice of rich quality and operatic range and power and she sings with an exquisite finish. For the encore, which was demanded, she sang, "Like Unto a Lovely Flower," by Chadwick. Later in the evening she sang a double number, "Could I," by Tosti and "Longings," by Clayton Johns, and her final number was "Chant d'Amour" by Chaminade. Should Mrs. Tallard favor a Janesville audience with another visit she may be sure of a warm welcome.

Master James Roberts sang Behrend's beautiful song "Daddy" and although he was suffering from a severe cold and hoarseness this promising young vocalist did bravely and well. He has a very sweet soprano voice. In his duet with Mrs. Learned, "I Live and Love Thee" by Campana, with which the second part of the program opened, he also did nicely and the number was a very pleasing one.

A violin solo, "An Angel's Dream," by Lagye, played by Little Wilna Soverhill, was quite a revelation to the audience who did not dream that such a rare treat was in store for them when the little maiden stepped upon the stage. She is only eight years old and looks younger and plays with a touch that shows her to be possessed of great natural talent and an artistic temperament. She was given a perfect ovation of applause and responded with "Alice Mazourka."

One of the prettiest things heard in this city in many a day was Bishop's "Should He Upbraid," as sung by Mrs. E. J. Carroll. Her birdlike voice showed perfect control and was beautifully adapted to the delicacy of the selection. This was true also of "Spring Song" by F. Lynes, which she gave in response to the insistent encore which she received. Both numbers were delightful and by them Mrs. Carroll won new laurels. Ostar Halverson received much praise for the sympathetic manner in which he played the violin obligato for each number.

Mrs. Learned was also delightful in her artistic rendition of "Daphne's Love" by Landon Ronald, a selection in which the richness and melody of her voice was most effective. For an encore she sang a catchy song which told the story of a bumblebee and a butterfly.

A pleasing variation in the program was given in the euphonium solo by Arthur Cralk. He played Bellstedt's arrangement of "Nearer My God to Thee" in a manner which well merited the hearty applause which he received.

The program came to a brilliant close with a trio, Millet's "Ye Fields of Light," sung by Mrs. Learned, Miss Palmer and J. S. Taylor. The selection is especially strong and pleasing and the rendition of it was faultless, making a splendid climax for a splendid concert.

The greater part of the piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. W. T. Sherer, although Mrs. J. F. Sweney accompanied Mrs. Carroll and Miss Cora Soverhill played for her sister. It is needless to say that the accompaniments upon which the success of the musical numbers so largely depends, were faultlessly played.

IT IS IMPORTANT.

To Know What You are Taking When Using Catarrh Medicines.

Catarrh is the short cut to consumption, and the importance of early and judicious treatment of catarrh, whether located in the head, throat or bronchial tubes, cannot be too strongly emphasized.

The list of catarrh cures is as long as the moral law and the forms in which they are administered, numerous and confusing, from sprays, inhalers, washes, ointments, and salves to powders, liquids and tablets.

The tablet form is undoubtedly the most convenient and effective, but in nearly all advertised catarrh remedies it is nearly all guess work as to what you are taking into your system, as the proprietors, while making all sorts of claims as to what their medicines will do, always keep it a close secret as to what they are.

The success and popularity of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, is largely because it not only cures catarrh but because catarrh sufferers who used these tablets know what they are taking into their systems. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets being composed of Eucalyptol, Hydrastin, Guaiacol, and similar vegetable and antiseptic ingredients, and are pleasant to the taste and being dissolved in the mouth they take immediate effect upon the mucous lining of the throat, nasal passages and whole respiratory tract.

The cures that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have accomplished in old, chronic cases of catarrh are little short of remarkable, and the advantage of knowing what you are taking into your stomach is of paramount importance when it is remembered that the cocaine or morphine habit has been frequently contracted as the result of using secret catarrh remedies.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets meet with cordial approval from physicians, because their antiseptic character render them perfectly safe for the general public to use and their composition makes them a common sense cure for all forms of catarrhal troubles.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full sized packages.

Freight House Is Burned.

St. Louis, Mo., April 2.—Fire destroyed the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern freight house and platforms and fifty cars loaded with grain in East St. Louis, Ill. The fire was caused by sparks from a switch engine. The damage is roughly estimated at $150,000. The loss is covered by insurance, most of which is held in Louisville.

PUNY CHILDREN

TOO MANY OF THEM DIE.

Their Little Bodies Unable to Stand the Ordeal of Development.

WE THINK EVERY MOTHER IN THIS TOWN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT VINOL.

It is the Delicious Tonic We Advise for Growing Children.

Is your boy or girl pale and listless? Do they act differently from other children? Do they sleep poorly and eat poorly? Does your boy avoid the sports and games of other boys? Does your girl complain of headache and find her studies a hardship?

If so, you may make up your mind they are growing too fast. They need something to help nature in her great work of furnishing the necessary elements for creating flesh and muscle tissue, bone structure and rich, pure, red blood.

They need a tonic in the full sense of the word and we can tell you what to get.

It is Vinol Wine of Cod-Liver Oil, the great modern reconstructer. Children like it, it is so delicious to the taste, in spite of the fact that it contains a highly concentrated extract of the medicinal principles that are found in cod-liver oil.

But because the vile-smelling and tasting grease has been discarded and all of the other disagreeable features eliminated, the benefits of Vinol are easily understood.

Vinol acts favorably on the stomach, creates an appetite and enables the food that is eaten to do the greatest possible amount of good.

Following is a letter that bears directly on this subject:

"I was all run down and took Vinol. It did me so much good and it was so pleasant to take that I gave it to my children. They were growing fast and needed something in the way of a tonic and I found it to be just the thing for them." SARAH PICKERING, 1932 Fall River, Mass.

We cordially invite mothers interested in the welfare of their children, as well as any one else needing a sure, safe and delicious tonic, re-builder and rejuvenator, to call on us. We will gladly tell anyone all we know about Vinol and why we so highly endorse it.

Inasmuch as we are always ready and pleased to refund the cost of Vinol to those who don't find it exactly what we claim it to be, it will be seen that we are prepared to substantially endorse our claims for the excellence of this marvelous preparation.

Judiciously mixed.
The quiet, artistic beauty of any home is destroyed by inharmonious wall decorations.

No matter how tasteful the furnishings of your home may be, if the wall paper is not in keeping with the furniture, the effect will be thoroughly disagreeable. The cannot get happy results from poor paper.

In this year of 1901 there is absolutely no excuse for anyone buying in-artistic and inharmonious wall paper, no matter how thin their purses may be. Its merely a question of going to the right place—to the place where a stock of wall paper large enough and varied enough in quality, design and price to suit all people's tastes and purses is kept—a store which aids its customers in securing harmonious combinations of colors, and which has its own wall paper hangers and decorators, who do your work in a careful and conscientious manner.

CONFRONTED WITH A FACT.

The republican members of the legislature are confronted with a cold and stubborn fact, and the manner in which they meet it will have much to do with the future welfare of the party in the state.

It is apparent to the most casual observer that the discussion and handling of the primary law has developed more or less bitter feeling, and that the republican party now stands at the parting of the ways. It is very easy for the radical supporters of the measure to say, "We won't yield a point," and just as easy for the opponents to take the same position. While there may be a good deal of personal satisfaction in that kind of back bone and determination, and while as a rule the people admire a spirit of independence in thought and action, yet there are cases where vital interests are involved, and where personal preference is called upon to yield a point to larger interests involved.

The republican party is now confronted with such conditions and the destiny of the party is in the hands of a few men, whose action will determine whether the party shall unite in fact as well as in name, and continue to administer affairs of government.

The supporters of the bill contend that party pledges must be redeemed and the Stevens bill passed, because the party is committed to it. This, in a nut shell, is the only argument they use, and as an abstract proposition it may have some weight.

The opponents of the measure claim that while the convention adopted a platform with a primary law plank, that it remained for the legislature to formulate a law that would not endanger the welfare of the party, and that the Stevens bill is too revolutionary in character for party safety, or for the best interests of the state. A willingness has been expressed to pass the bill subject to the approval of the people, or subject to local test, and the chances are that some compromise measure, will be passed by the senate. If this is done, the first step towards conciliation is advanced, and it remains for the assembly to meet it, in a spirit of fairness.

The margin of support in the lower house is so narrow that the supporters of the measure can not afford to be obstinate about it. A bill of such far reaching import should have united support. The party can not afford to go before the people on an issue where so much doubt is expressed. While the state has been strongly republican for a number of years, it is susceptible to revolution, and the element in the party, namely, the foreign voter, recognized as holding the balance of power, is not in sympathy with the radical primary reform. The election of 1892 comes in an off year, when national issues are not involved. The republican party can hardly afford to create a state issue, on which the democrats can reorganize, with fair chances for success.

These are questions that should be carefully considered by the little coterie of men now at Madison. They are questions that concern thoughtful republicans throughout the state.

Party harmony is very desirable, and it is possible for the legislature to adjourn with a united party under the leadership of Governor La Follette, with a bright future ahead of both himself and the republican party, if common sense, and wisdom, controls action in disposing of the primary election bill.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

It is well for Janesville that the city has a humane society, and that a few public spirited, kind hearted people, are willing to engage in the work, not for fame or personal gain, but because prompted by a spirit of humanity. It is natural to listen to the voice of a child in suffering, and a mother in want, and very few people turn a deaf ear, but it is extremely difficult to recognize the silent voices of patient and helpless sufferers to be found on our streets every day.

There is an old Scripture that says, "A merciful man is merciful to his beast," suffers untold misery, and discovered that all men are not merciful, and so in this age of Christian intelligence, and in this city that we are proud to call our home, the "meast" suffers untold misery, and like the Priest and Levite on the Jericho road, we pass by on the other side. It ought to be the business of every humane person to note evidences of suffering, and report it to the humane society. There isn't a day of the year when horses are not found on the street, suffering intensely, because some thoughtless or careless driver uses an overdraw check and permits the intelligent animal to stand for hours with the muscles of his neck aching worse than the tooth ache. These checks are all right when intelligently used, but a man who will permit a horse to stand in torture, when the unchecking would make him comfortable, is neither fit to own nor drive a horse.

Some Beloit man drove his horse into an alley one cold night last week. The horse had been clipped, and when found the next morning, after standing hunched to the buggy all night, he was more dead than alive. If the town had been properly officered, the horse would have been discovered before midnight.

The humane society attempts to regulate this sort of neglect and cruelty, and in its work is entitled to every possible encouragement. The horse is too valuable an animal to be abused, but if he possessed no more value than a dog, the instincts of common humanity would suggest that he has claims to decent and humane treatment. Every citizen has a right to talk for a dumb animal, and to talk vigorously when occasion demands. The ear of the humane society is always open, don't be afraid to file complaints. Public sentiment is behind the movement, and when aroused, the helpless animal has many more friends than the brute who abuses him.

FARMER BOYS TO THE CITY.

The county superintendents of the country are trying to stem the tide of emigration of farmer boys to the city. If they are successful the city will be the loser, for she always has drawn upon the farming population for the majority of her prominent business managers.

The farm cultivates the brain and brawn necessary to the management of tremendous interests involved in the transaction of large wholesale and manufacturing concerns. The city bred man, surrounded by the enervating influences of high social life, late hours, cigarettes and wine, ballet dancers and the races; comes to the office tired out, nervous, overwhelmed by ennui and lassitude. He is physically incapable of enduring the strain necessary to overcome the obstacles which confront him at every turn. Statistics show that 80 per cent. of the city merchants fail in business, and of those that succeed, 85 per cent. come from the farm. The emigration of the farmer boy to the city should not be stopped, but more of our boys should be developed on the farm.

The president's speedy reward to General Funston, will be heartily endorsed by the people. The objection on the part of a little squad of army officers, prompted by jealousy, does not strike a sympathetic chord, and is occasion for regret. The country is large enough for the few Roosevelts and Funstons, that occasionally spring to the surface in an emergency, and it hasn't much time for pink tea criticism. Red tape may be all right in the English army, but it's off color in America.

The Court of Appeals of Kentucky have decided to grant Caleb Powers and James Howard a new trial. This is the beginning of a reign of law in Kentucky, of which it has been deprived since the famous Goebel murder. There is no evidence to show that either Powers or Howard are guilty, and surgeons now claim that the wound from which Goebel died, was received from some one standing on the ground, as indicated by the course of the bullet.

The propriety of using up all one's supply of stamped checks before July 1st, is rather an incentive to paying one's bills with reasonable promptitude.

The dome of the new Chicago post office is to be large enough to contain the Marquette building. We hope it will not be large enough to house some of the frauds perpetrated in the old post office.

Profitless Knowledge.

"I suppose it would delight you beyond measure if all these mysteries about the habitability of Mars and the conditions on the moon could be finally settled."

"Delight me!" echoed the astronomer. "Certainly not! What would become of the income I derive from the composition and sale of theories on the subject?"—Washington Star.

Invention Not Needed.

A DIFFERENCE

By F. B. Embree.

"Then you think love goes for nothing; only abled-bodied laborers need apply," said Jack.

Ethel laughed. "Well, a one armed lover wouldn't be of much use here." She was still breathless from her encounter with the crowd through which Jack's height and football muscle had forced a way for her, while he was weighing her emotional nature.

"But seriously, Miss Bray, don't you think it's possible for a woman to fall in love with a cripple?"

"Seriously, Mr. Archer, I do not. She may feel sorry for him, and so marry him out of sentimentality to love, but women put strength where men do beauty. Now, would you marry Sallie Denton?"

Sallie Denton was a red haired, squint eyed, lantern jawed apple woman. "That is an extreme case. Her mental acquaintance and social position match her looks."

"Eie, my dear girl! You beg the question! How many maids of low degree and small accomplishments have been lifted to place and fortune by a pretty face?"

"But not all popular women have been beauties."

"In the eyes of their admirers they have been."

"Oh, what a twisting of logic! Then a woman might imagine strength, even an arm or leg."

"There is your station. I believe you would have gone by, you love so to argue."

How the whole conversation came back to Miss Bray on that day when she started at the page before her bearing Jack Archer's name among the wounded after the battle of San Juan! Later she learned that, with his right arm gone and the sight of one of his eyes destroyed, he was coming home. How she longed to see him, to tell him in some way that she had repented her foolish words!

"Oh, why, why," she moaned, "do women express opinions about things of which they are wholly ignorant? What difference does it make to me that Jack is a cripple? My fortune is quite sufficient for us both, and if it wasn't I'd think it an honor to work for him. Oh, if he had only told me of his love before he went away!"

Everybody, including Ethel herself, had long known that Jack Archer was deeply in love with the slim, athletic girl who was his constant companion on the links and in all the walking excursions of their set. She it was who wore his colors at the football games and waved them loyally through defeat as well as victory. And yet not a word of love had passed between the two comrades. The perfect faith had been too sweet to exchange for proof.

It had not occurred to Ethel that Jack could be hurt in battle. After he had gone, she once or twice allowed herself to grow sentimental over an imaginary guy in faraway Cuba, but there was no reality in the picture. To come home maimed—that had never occurred to her!

The meeting was over. How had Jack managed it? He had been kind, deferential, everything good breeding and their long acquaintance demanded, but he had set up a barrier between them which even she, not at all given to distrust, greatly feared could never be broken down.

Months passed, and never once had they been alone. It had all been managed so unobtrusively. Ethel was quite sure no one, not even her mother, had noticed the fact. In her sore heart she had to doubt Jack's love.

At last she determined upon strategy. She was a most successful mimic and could assume her brother Herbert's voice to perfection. At the last moment one evening she had excused herself from a family theater party on the plea of headache. She was at the telephone as soon as the carriage had driven off, and in her brother's voice asked Jack to come to the house immediately. Then to the butler:

"James, if Mr. Archer calls to see Herbert, I have a message for him. If any one else calls, I am not at home."

She had not long to wait before her lover came.

"Brother told me to say how sorry he was. He was called out just after he telephoned, and as he knew you would probably be on the way he left me to make his apology. And, by the way, I only heard today of your engagement. I believe it isn't announced yet, but we are such old friends you won't mind if I congratulate you now."

"My engagement! Ethel, you know that will never be."

"Why not?" The brown eyes were wide with innocence. Could any one suspect that her heart was beating like a trip hammer?

Jack drew his breath hard. Then he said coldly, "I beg your pardon, Miss Bray, but I think you yourself warned me once about the matrimonial prospects of a cripple."

"Oh, I said women put strength where men do beauty, and you are strong and—and—cruel!" Ethel was fast losing her self control. "If a man was in love with a girl," she went on hurriedly, "and some one should throw vitriol at her or—something, would he not speak to her any more and avoid her and—and—everything?"

Ethel had grown more and more incoherent and finished by sobbing outright. Then she turned and would have run out of the room if a strong left arm had not held her.

"Ethel, do you pity me?"

"I—I don't see why I should. I'm the one to be pitied."

The arm relaxed, but tightened again as the voice went on:

"It's—it's disgraceful to make a girl propose."

A good soldier knows when to capitulate, and Jack had won the brevets for bravery.

"And I thought you knew more of philosophy," Ethel said later, "than to believe theory was ever intended to fit practice. It may be true enough to say that cripples are ineligible, but if you are a cripple—why, that's different."—St. Louis Star.

To Know Your Flower.

If one has tried on many of the flower collures she will soon learn, remarks an exchange, that there are becoming flowers regardless of color becomingness, and the reverse: Some are in sympathy with our heads and faces, others are not. A single flower of pronounced size is par excellence for some heads and faces, an added charm, while to others a monstrosity out of line and rhythm. There are heads and faces only fitted for the finest of feathery blossoms, others for small but very decided floral specimens, and still others for spiked blooms rather than round disks in flower. Then, again, there are faces born for roses only, and faces and heads there are for strong, violent colors, in yellow and reds. To know your flower is a gift not to be despised whenever floral collures are in mode.

A Favorite Dessert.

Spanish cream is a favorite dessert. For one quart of cold milk use half a box of gelatin. Cover and let them stand together about an hour. Then beat, but do not let the mixture boil. Beat the yolks of four eggs and add to them half a pound of fine sugar. Turn the scalding milk over the eggs and sugar, stirring all the time. Return the mixture to the fire and stir until it is of the consistency of soft custard. Let the mixture become cold, stirring it occasionally as it cools. When it begins to thicken, flavor with vanilla and lightly stir in the whites of the eggs that have been beaten to a stiff froth. Turn the mixture into a mold and put in a cold place. Make a soft custard and pour around this dessert when serving it.

LIVELY INTEREST IN THE ELECTION

Looks as if the Republican
Ticket Would Be a Clean Sweep.

AVERAGE VOTE POLLED

Hot Fight in Most All of the Wards To Elect Their Aldermen.

VOTE UP TO THREE O'CLOCK

The candidates of both parties are hustling around today working for the unwary voter. Carriages are kept busy picking up those who live on the outskirts of their voting precincts and also those who are sick and crippled and are not able to walk to the polls.

Close tab is being kept on the voters by checkers stationed at the voting places, so that those who have not voted may be brought in before the polls are closed.

An average vote had been polled up to twelve o'clock and although the day was somewhat stormy and was claimed to be Democratic weather, it looked as if the republicans would win hands down.

The fight for mayor is a warm one. It is conceded that Mayor Richardson is safely in the lead. The democrats are making desperate efforts to cut down his majority by telling things that would attract no attention at any time but during election.

A. E. Badger has a solid following and is likely to be elected by a large majority.

S. C. Burnham for school commissioner seems to be running well and anticipates no trouble in being elected. He is a good man for the office and could not be improved upon.

C. W. Reeder stands a good show to be the next justice of the peace. He is a young man with plenty of ability to conduct the office in first-class shape.

George H. Devey has carried out the duties of sealer of weights and measures to the satisfaction of all and will no doubt be elected by a handsome majority.

A warm fight is on in the First ward for alderman, between Walter S. Rice and Henry Blunk. Mr. Rice has made a good record as alderman and the people of the ward will no doubt show that they have endorsed his administration when the votes are counted tonight.

In the Second Ward Dr. James Mills is making a hard fight and if not elected will be defeated only by a small majority.

H. S. Gilkey and Richard Whitton are having a hot time of it in the Third ward where party jealousies have cropped out. This may cut down Gilkey's majority some but the difference is so small that it is not likely to endanger his re-election.

In the Fourth ward which is one of the democratic strongholds a struggle is going on between the candidates which bids fair to result in a republican victory.

In the Fifth Ward which is overwhelmingly democratic, James G. Wray is making a strong fight to cut down McLean's democratic majority as much as possible.

The vote of the different precincts at three o'clock this afternoon as compared with the vote at the presidential election on November 6, 1900 is as follows:

	1900	1901
FIRST WARD—
First Precinct.....	166	121
Second Precinct.....	275	215
SECOND WARD—

PRETTY WEDDING AT PARK HOTEL

Miss Minnie Baker and Edward A. Kemmerer United in Matrimony—
The Gower-Steiner Wedding.

The parlors of the Park hotel were the scene of a quiet wedding last evening, the happy contracting parties being Miss Minnie Baker and Edward A. Kemmerer, both well known young people of this city. The nuptial knot was tied at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. Walter A. Hall, the pastor of the Court street M. E. church, in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends.

The parlors were handsomely decorated, a bank of green foliage and white lilies forming an effective background for the bridal party. There were no attendants. The bride was becomingly attired in a handsome gown of white silk organdie and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The groom wore the conventional

After congratulations had been tendered an elaborate wedding supper was prettily served in the hotel dining room, the tables being attractively decorated. During both the ceremony and the supper, the Orpheus Mandolin club furnished excellent music.

The groom is the landlord of the Park hotel which he recently leased. He is an enterprising young man and during the past few years of his connection with the hotel he has made many friends. His bride is a young woman of attractive personality and the high esteem in which she is held was evidenced in a measure by the large number of handsome presents which they received.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Kemmerer has but recently undertaken the management of the hotel he and his bride will take no wedding trip. They will make their home at the hotel.

Among those who attended the wedding from out of town were the groom's mother, Mrs. S. L. Kemmerer, of Independence, Ia., the bride's brothers, H. C. and John Baker with their wives, of Madison; her sisters, Mrs. E. Hall and Mrs. Thompson and daughter of Madison, and Mrs. Keefe and daughter of St. Paul, Minn.; and Lee Ward of Madison.

FUNERAL TODAY OF ABRAM PHELPS

Burial Conducted From the Home On Pleasant Street By the Rev. W. A. Hall.

Loving relatives and friends bade the last sad farewell to the earthly form which had been the abiding place of Abram Phelps, this afternoon, brief funeral services being conducted from the home at 155 Pleasant street at three o'clock. The message of consolation was spoken by Rev. W. A. Hall, pastor of the Court street M. E. church, of which deceased was a loyal member. The home was filled with sorrowing friends by whom the memory of the good man gone before will ever be cherished and theasket was almost concealed by its burden of beautiful roses, carnations and lilies.

There was no song service, the remains being taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment at the close of Rev. Hall's tribute and prayer. The sad privilege of bearing the remains to their final resting place was intrusted to Wilbur F. Carle, S. D. Conant, H. E. Bliss and Silas Hayner, all of whom had enjoyed Mr. Phelps' warm personal friendship.

DINNER MODES OF TODAY.

The Arrangement of the Table and the Order of Service.

The mode of today requires that extreme and elegant simplicity be shown in arranging and decorating the table. The linen must be of the finest quality and as white as the pure north snow.

Probably the most difficult part of table setting is the proper placing of any goldware one may have. All gilded articles are properly limited to the service of such things as fruit, salt, pepper, olives and the like. But silver or silver and pearl throughout are in better form.

At table elegance requires the use of cut glass. No substitute, where formality is entertained, is permissible.

Often the water in finger bowls is slightly perfumed. This is permissible and a matter left to the taste of the one arranging the dinner. Still strict table etiquette should not allow it. At any rate, the only perfume tolerable is a faint suggestive odor of attar of roses.

If leaves are placed upon the table—and they should be there always—great care must be taken in their arrangement. They should be decorated without obstructing, brightening and not oppressing. They must not be so fragrant that their odor could chance to offend. For this reason tuberoses and like flowers are excluded in table decoration.

Oysters may be served before the soup, likewise small crabs in season, but these alone are admissible before the arrival of the soup. They form the only course which may appear upon the table when the dinner is announced.

As to the soup, it is preferable to serve some clear bouillon, as this course, opening the meal, should be an appetizing one, preparing for those more substantial.

Next comes the fish course. Certain kinds may be garnished, but the inviolable white potato, boiled, should be served at this time, although certain well known chefs err here in serving them a la creme and in other ways.

Then one or more entrees follow and perhaps a relve, after which roasts and vegetables are in order, and after this another entree or relve, when the game course is served.

In a less formal dinner the game course may be omitted.

Here, with one more entree or relve, the dinner, properly speaking, ends.

It is customary to open the dessert courses with a warm dish or pastry.

This is followed by the various jellies and ices and at last by cake, fruit, bonbons and nuts.

As to coffee, it is now dictated that this should be served to the guests in the drawing rooms.

The foregoing are a few items from a resume in Table Talk of the art of dining well.

THE MODERN TYPEWRITER.

Some of the Ingenious Schemes From Which It Has Evolved.

"The history of the typewriter would make a volume full of intense human interest," said an expert who was recently in the city. "There is no other mechanical appliance in the world upon which so much diversified inventive genius has been lavished and so many strange and cranky ideas advanced. When you know that over 300 different kinds of typewriters have been constructed and abandoned since the date of the first experiment, and over 100 are in use now, you can form some conception of the magnitude of the problem and the activity of the inventors."

"Many of those queer early models bear no resemblance to any variety of machine familiar to us today. One of them was half as large as an ordinary piano and weighed 600 pounds. It did pretty fair work, by the way, if the operator wasn't pressed for time, and is now preserved as a curiosity in the office of one of the big firms in the north."

"Another strange specimen was made like a globe—in fact, I think it was called 'The Writing Globe'—and had the type raised on its surface. It swung around on a universal joint, and a very ingenious contrivance stopped and depressed it at exactly the proper place over the paper. It worked perfectly, but it was impossible to write more than two or three words a minute on it, and how the inventor could possibly have imagined it would ever be a practical success is something I am unable to understand."

"Nearly all the modern typewriters now on the market are evolutions, rather than inventions. They have been gradually built up and perfected and are the fruit of scores of brains. I call one machine to mind in which fully 200 patents of different kinds are incorporated. One small part, that could be held in the palm of the hand, has been changed and improved a dozen times since the first model came out of the shop."

"Most of these inventions are made by the workmen at the benches, and the company buys and develops them. As a rule they are small, and the mechanic gets from $5 to $50 for his idea, but occasionally some bright fellow stumbles on to something much more valuable. One big hit in that line was a device for cutting typewriter type from a continuous roll of wire. It was designed by a young chap in one of the large manufacturing firms, and his own firm paid him $40,000 in cash for the exclusive rights. He has quit work since and set up an automobile."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

HAS A VALET AND ELEVEN BIG TRUNKS

Fred Gebhardt of New York, Locates at Sioux Falls—Divorce Suit is Hinted At.

St. Paul, April 2.—Fred Gebhardt, whose name was associated with that of Lilly Langtry several years ago and who subsequently married a Baltimore belle, has arrived at Sioux Falls, S. D., with his valet and eleven big trunks.

A telegram from Sioux Falls says Mr. Gebhardt arrived there yesterday and is making every possible effort to suppress his mission. He states that he is there on "business," but it is said that he has joined the colony to acquire a legal residence, and that he will sue for a divorce when the time limit of six months has arrived. Until that time arrives and the papers are filed there will be no means of ascertaining the grounds upon which he will contest the action or whether his wife will contest the application.

He must live in South Dakota for six months though it is unnecessary for him to remain in any particular locality.

MEXICAN TROOPS DEFEAT THE YAQUIS

Mexican Troops Defeat Yaquis. El Paso, Tex., April 2.—A report comes from San Marcial, Province of Sonora, Mexico, of an engagement between federal troops under Colonel Torres assisted by sixteen citizens under command of President Santos Cuen and a band of Yaquis rebels. The Indians were overtaken twelve leagues from town near an eminence known as La Pirinola.

A number of Yaquis were killed or wounded and several captured, among whom was the leader of the band, who refused to retreat, and was shot.

These Indians are supposed to be part of the band which was forced out of the mountains in the Yaquis country by federal troops in order to round them up.

Human Race Is Funny.

This is what Henri Labouche, editor of London Truth, thinks of humanity: "I regard the entire human race as little animals fussing about on the rim of one of the millions on millions of globes that float in infinite space for a second or two of eternity and then disappear. Artificial distinctions between these little animals have no more significance to me than those between ants in the nest which the foot of some passer-by sweeps out of existence."

TO DEMAND NINE-HOUR DAY.

Machinists in Several Large Cities Likely to Strike.

New York, April 2.—George H. Warner, business agent of the New York district of the International Association of Machinists, reported at a meeting of the Central Federation union last night that mass meetings will be held all over the United States, Mexico and Canada to prepare for the nine-hour demand of the machinists. The employers have been given until May 1 to prepare for the demand, which is to go into effect on May 20.

A mass-meeting of the New York district of the association will be held in Madison Square garden on May 20, at which President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor will speak. It was stated that the federation will put all the organizers in can spurs among the machinists in the meantime to stir up the nonunion men.

President James O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists, who was in this city last night, said that strikes of machinists are likely to occur in Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Buffalo, St. Louis, Providence, Philadelphia and Worcester, Mass. No strikes of any extent, he said, were expected in New York.

NO EXCUSE FOR ILLITERACY.

A. P. Gorman Says Maryland Negroes Have Ample Chance to Learn.

New York, April 2.—Ex-Senator Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, in an interview regarding the recent political legislation enacted at Annapolis, which appears in a special from Washington, says:

"If there are many illiterates in Maryland who will be affected by the passage of the present law the blame lies with themselves. We have had the most perfect system of public schools for thirty years of any state south of Pennsylvania.

"Since 1870 the colored population have had ample opportunity to learn to read and write, by means of the schools furnished by the white taxpayer of Maryland. And if, after these years of honest effort on the part of the white people in supporting these schools, there are, as is asserted, 26,000 of them who cannot read or write the fault can be attributed only to their lack of desire to obtain knowledge. If they prefer to remain in ignorance there is no way to compel them to learn, unless the incentive to vote may hereafter encourage them to attend the schools."

Del. Heath and wife arrived in the city yesterday and are the guests of Mrs. Heath's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Dudley. They have just returned from a two months' trip to California where they visited San Francisco, Los Angeles, Long Beach and the Catalina islands.
